

A map of a region, possibly a lake or a set of islands, is shown in grey. The region is divided into three parts by red lines. A vertical line separates the western part from the eastern part. A horizontal line separates the northern part from the southern part. The western part is labeled 'Westblatt', the eastern part is labeled 'Ostblatt', and the southern part is labeled 'Südblatt'. The labels are in bold black text with a white outline.
